Art Unit: 1714

The recited continuing data with respect to US 60/001,723 is objected and "is a continuation-in-part" should be "claims the benefit".

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 44 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The recited "the gel forms a microparticle after crosslinking" is confusing since claim 38 recites that the macromer forms a gel after (covalently) crosslinking.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 38-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Nair et al (US 5,429,826).

Art Unit: 1714

Nair et al teach copolymer particles obtained from crosslinking of a macromer having at least four blocks, wherein at least two blocks are hydrophilic and at least two blocks are hydrophobic (oleophilic) in abstract and at col. 3, lines 24-68. A represents hydrophilic and B represents hydrophobic in the structure shown at col. 3. The utilization of biomedical agents in the core of the chemically fixed micelle is taught at col. 4, lines 20-39. Said biomedical agents are in the form of fine dispersion (which implies microparticles) in the core (col. 4, lines 45-51) meeting the instant claims 42 and 43. The instantly recited properties are inherent in the copolymer particles and a method of making thereof of Nair et al.

Thus, the instant invention lacks novelty.
